

Betula papyrifera

Paper Birch

A fast-growing, short-lived tree. Slender in form, may be single- or multi-trunked. Chalky white bark. Beautiful yellow fall foliage. Very attractive to birds and wildlife. Susceptible to birch borer and other disease and insect problems, but tends to perform better than the more commercially common European white birch.

Suggested companions: aspen (Populus tremuloides), white pine (Pinus strobus), bracken fern (Pteridium aquilinum)
